SOUTH BOSTON MARKET.

Hundreds of Wagons of the Weed Rolling by Every Day,

[Special to The Times-Dispators, 5]

SOUTH BOSTON, VA., October 15.—This tobacco market is now in full blast, hundreds of wagonloads of the weed roll is each day. Every available floor space in each of the several warchouses is utilized; covery piece of machinery is put into operation; the buyers are fully alive to the situation and are paying the planter good priess, and the entire town in general is allive with activity, enterprise and progressiveness.

Nearly 1,000,000 pounds of tobacco was sold on this market during the week at an average of about 10 cents a pound. Some wrappers sold for $50. The prices and quality are mutually satisfactory to both planter and buyer.

South Boston hopes to sell more of the leaf this season than ever before.

South Boston hopes to sell more of the leaf this seasen than ever before.

Danville Sales Henry.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
DANVILLE, VA. October 15.—The sales this week have been the heaviest had in the new crop, and for several days lasted until the afternoon.

The offerings have been in very good condition, of good, medium quality, free of sand, and generally desirable, although the fine grades, especially wrappers, have been of buyers is in daily attendance upon the warehouse floors, but the huyers for foreign accounts are not taking hold with their accustomed visor, especially the larger concerns, as the outlook is not altogether saitsfactory.

The decreased consumption of bright to bacco, brought about by the high prices of the past few years, the increased duty on leaf, and the substitution of other growths of tobacco at much lower prices, has had s material effect upon buyers and the market.

The 1990 old belt crop is thought to be as exceptionally good one, and prices are not unreasonable, but are folly as high as the not altogether satisfactory situation justifies.

The stocks of 1908 crop have been materially reduced within the last six weeks, but the sales of the past ten days have been rather small.

Chatham Tobacco Market.

Chatham Topacco Market.

Chatham Topace Market.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHATHAM, VA., October 18.—Tobacco sales have been very good this week and prices have been very satisfactory. The quantity sold to date in much greater than the warnouse firms anticipated this early in the sennon. The Franklin Junction market, twelve miles north of this place, opened this week with a good quantity on sale the first day.

good sales, but they are rather relicent as to particulars.

All of the auction sales for the week were well attended by eager buyers, and in nearly every instance the property offered under the hammer went for the high dollar, there being only one or two "take-ins."

There comes a pleasing story that the half a block at Governor and Ross Streets is soon to be forn down, and an up-to-date warehouse erected on the old site, the same to be occupied when completed by Worsham & Zinqke, printers and publishers.
